at the entrance. The support area contains one administration building, three barracks, three vehicle storage buildings, two vehicle storage buildings under construction, 12 storage buildings, 11 support buildings, and a heat/power plant (Figures 2 and 3).

Missile Storage and Checkout Area

The Missile Storage and Checkout Area is secured by triple fences and a guard tower. A gatehouse is outside the entrance. The area contains three drive-through earthcovered missile-storage buildings, a missile-storage building under construction, a drivethrough missile assembly/checkout building, two earth-covered storage buildings, one revetted storage shed, five small storage buildings, and one support building (Figuresx1 2 and 3).

A new area of construction activity was observed in adjacent to tb26X1 access road to the installation and 0.5 nm southwest of the Support Area (Figure 4). The new area contains an arch-roofed possible missile storage building in the midstage of construction, a second arch-roofed building in the early stage of construction, a second arch-roofed building in the early stage of construction, and two small support buildings. The area of construction activity is approximately 1,900 by 380 feet and no security measures are visible.

CHRONOLOGY

The installation appeared to be operational when first observed, on photography of The Support Area appeared complete with the exception of the administration building and two vehicle storage buildings. The Missile Storage and Checkout Area contained one missile storage building, the drive-through missile assembly/checkout building, and the small earth-covered storage building.
